Ingram Micro ITAD Expands to Boston

IRVINE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Ingram Micro Commerce & Lifecycle Services announced today it continues to accelerate its global IT Asset Disposition (ITAD) capabilities with the opening of its third new facility of 2019. Following successful launches in Richmond, VA in January and Bogotá, Colombia in February, Ingram Micro ITAD returns focus to the Eastern seaboard with an ITAD Service Hub north of Boston. Located in Stoneham to provide easy access to Massachusetts' famous technology corridor, Route 128, this latest addition extends Ingram Micro's asset disposition and device lifecycle services to 32 locations worldwide.

"Our new Stoneham center further illustrates our commitment to bring services closer to our customers around the globe. While many ITAD and e-Waste companies are closing or scaling down operations, Ingram Micro continues to invest in growing our footprint, capacity, and capabilities," said Todd Zegers, vice president, ITAD, Commerce & Lifecycle Services. "We are committed to expanding our IT Lifecycle Service Management offerings to meet our clients wherever they do business. As our focus expands from traditional ITAD activities like collections, onsite data sanitization or drive shredding to encompass a growing suite of asset management services, look for additional announcements as the year unfolds."

The Boston ITAD Service Center is ready for scheduling.
