Huntsman to Present at Citi Basic Materials Conference on December 3rd; Update on Disruption at Port Neches Facility

THE WOODLANDS, Texas, Dec. 2, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Huntsman Corporation (NYSE: HUN) today announced that Peter Huntsman, Chairman, President and CEO, will address investors at the Citi 2019 Basic Materials Conference in New York City on Tuesday, December 3, 2019 at 9:30 a.m. ET. A live webcast, as well as the presentation slides, can be accessed at the time of the presentation via the webcast link at Huntsman's investor relations website, ir.huntsman.com. Upon conclusion of the live webcast, the webcast replay will be accessible via Huntsman's website.

Regarding its discontinued operations, on early Wednesday morning, November 27th, there was an explosion and fire at a neighboring site to Huntsman's Port Neches, Texas facility. There were no serious injuries sustained by Huntsman associates and there was no damage to the Huntsman site. Except for the PO/MTBE unit, all other site operations have now resumed to pre-incident levels. Although the PO/MTBE unit was not damaged, it remains idled for the time being because of certain dependencies with the adjacent site that was damaged by the fire. While we await access to the adjacent site and further evaluate alternatives to safely bring this unit fully back on line, the expected duration of downtime and economic impact is unknown. The outage is expected to have a minor negative knock-on impact of a few million dollars to fourth quarter adjusted EBITDA for continuing operations, largely relating to the sourcing of PO.

The closing of the sale of Huntsman's Intermediates Chemicals, Integrated Oxides and Surfactants Business to Indorama Ventures remains on target for early 2020. Most recently, CFIUS approval was received, thereby clearing another condition precedent to the closing of this sale.
