Global Cannabis Community Embraced by MJ Freeway's International Editions of GramTracker™ and GrowTracker™ Software

International compliance tool also accommodates multilingual organizations within the US and Canada

DENVER, Oct. 17, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- MJ Freeway are pleased to announce the release of the international edition of their flagship GramTracker™ and GrowTracker™ software, beginning with French and Spanish localizations.

This release follows on the heels of the software's retail and not-for-profit collective terminology editions and establishes the company's commitment to the global cannabis market as well as to existing clients in Spain and bilingual and Francophone Canada. "We are hugely optimistic about the current opportunity in the international marketplace," says MJ Freeway Chief Operations Officer and Co-Founder Jessica Billingsley, explaining that, "ten countries in the European Union have now legalized cannabis in varying degrees, as have more than one South American country. Mexico City, North America's largest city, has legalization measures pending. We see this first multi-language release as merely the beginning in MJ Freeway's long-term global commitment to providing the most customer friendly business solutions for tracking cannabis and complying with government regulation wherever there is a need."

Language localization is available to all existing customers with a GramTracker or GrowTracker subscription. Existing store administrator accounts can enable language customization in General Settings.
