Skechers Elite Athlete Brooke Henderson Wins ESPY's Best Female Golfer Award

The Accolade Follows Henderson Becoming the Winningest Canadian in Golf

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Skechers elite athlete Brooke Henderson won the "Best Female Golfer" award at the Excellence in Sports Performance Awards (ESPYS), making history as one of golf's greats. The award follows the 21-year-old athlete's ninth win on the LPGA Tour at June's Meijer LPGA Classic in Michigan, an event that marked the most major tour wins ever achieved by a Canadian male or female golfer.

With Henderson's ESPY win, she joins the likes of legends Michelle Wie and Annika Sörenstam, besting a tough field of nominees that included Sung Hyun Park (#1 in World Golf Rankings), Jin Young Ko (#2 in World Golf Rankings) and Ariya Jutanugarn (#7 in World Golf Rankings).

"This is such an incredible honour — both to receive this award alongside my peers, as well as athletes in every sport — many of whom have been a great inspiration to me throughout my entire career," said Brooke Henderson. "At the end of the day, we all elevate each other's performances — and I want to celebrate Sung Hyun's, Jin Young's and Ariya's incredible talents on the Tour and look forward to continuing to compete with them for the remainder of the LPGA season."

Henderson has become a prominent face in women's golf since turning professional in December 2014. She won her first LPGA Tour event in 2015 at the Cambria Portland Classic, a title she would defend in 2016. She went on to become the second youngest player to capture a major championship with her win at the 2016 KPMG Women's PGA Championship. In 2016, Brooke also represented Canada at the 2016 Olympic games in Brazil, where she tied for seventh place. In 2018, she was the first Canadian to win the Lotte Championship, and she also became the first Canadian in 45 years to win the national championship at the CP Women's Open. Now with nine titles, Henderson owns the record for most professional golf wins by a male or female Canadian — surpassing greats Sandra Post, Mike Weir, and George Knudson. She is currently ranked #8 in the World Golf Rankings.
