Know Labs to Present Clinical Research at the 2024 American Association of Clinical Endocrinology Annual Meeting

The Company's oral abstract presentation features results from its clinical study that demonstrate the accuracy and medical application of its proprietary sensor.

SEATTLE--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Know Labs, Inc. (NYSE American: KNW), an emerging developer of non-invasive medical diagnostic technology, today announced it has been selected for an oral abstract presentation at the American Association of Clinical Endocrinology \(AACE\) Annual Meeting in New Orleans, Louisiana on May 9, 2024 from 11:15 a.m. – 11:30 a.m. CDT.

The Company will present an abstract titled, “Efficacy of a Non-Invasive Blood Glucose Monitor for Diabetes Management Using a Radiofrequency Sensor and Machine Learning.” Know Labs first announced these interim results in March of this year from its clinical research protocol involving people with diabetes, using venous blood as a comparative reference and a machine learning model trained on data collected in a lab setting.

During 2024, as the Company continues on the path toward FDA clearance, Know Labs will deploy the KnowU™, its wearable, non-invasive continuous glucose monitor (CGM) in large-scale, external clinical trials while advancing model techniques and making refinements to the device. These new studies will help determine the technology's performance throughout continuous wear, in more real-world environments, and within more extreme glycemic ranges (below 70 mg/dL and above 350 mg/dL). About Know Labs, Inc.

Know Labs, Inc. is a public company whose shares trade on the NYSE American Exchange under the stock symbol “KNW.” The Company's platform technology uses spectroscopy to direct electromagnetic energy through a substance or material to capture a unique molecular signature. The technology can be integrated into a variety of wearable, mobile or bench-top form factors. This patented and patent-pending technology makes it possible to effectively identify and monitor analytes that could only previously be performed by invasive and/or expensive and time-consuming lab-based tests. The first application of the technology will be in a product marketed as a non-invasive glucose monitor. The device will provide the user with accessible and affordable real-time information on blood glucose levels. This product will require U.S. Food and Drug Administration clearance prior to its introduction to the market.
