Professional Diversity Network Discusses Recent Partnerships

CHICAGO, April 12, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Professional Diversity Network, Inc. ("PDN" or "the Company") (NASDAQ:IPDN) today announces recent developments related to its core businesses of technology, careers and networking.

HIGHLIGHTS:

- PDN and National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) agree to a 2-year extension to produce Career Fairs, including the 2017 NAACP National Convention Career Fair, to be held in Baltimore, MD on July 25, 2017, and in San Antonio, TX in 2018.
- PDN and NAACP renew agreement to continue operations of the NAACP job board at www.NAACPJobFinder.com.
- Alpha Kappa Alpha, the first Greek-lettered sorority established by African-American college women, has selected PDN to conduct a Career Fair as part of the Alpha Kappa Alpha North East Regional Conference, to be held in Baltimore on April 27, 2017.
- Women in Technology International (WITI) has selected PDN to co-produce a Technology Career Fair for women as part of the WITI Summit in San Jose, CA on June 13, 2017.
- Black Data Processing Associates (BDPA) has selected PDN to co-produce the 39th Annual BDPA Technology Conference and Career Fair to be held in Cincinnati, OH on July 28-29, 2017.

These partnerships help renew and expand PDN's mission to connect diverse professionals with employers who value diversity. PDN will assist in all aspects of these events including sales, management, and promotions. PDN has expanded its reach to include technology opportunities for diverse candidates. According to Mike Hall, PDN Executive Vice President, "Working with partners whose demographics include diverse technology professionals helps our clients make connections with this important market. We are expanding our network of professional and industry associations to assist our clients with their outreach."

PDN maintains a partner network of over 30 organizations, including: The NAACP, which is the nation's oldest, largest and most widely recognized grassroots-based civil rights organization; Alpha Kappa Alpha is one of the largest historically black sororities in America with over 300,000 college trained members; BDPA, which was created in 1975 to bring minorities together in the information technology and computer science field; WITI, the global network of talented women in the technology industry with a market reach exceeding 2 million prospective members. PDN helps facilitate employer access to these and other essential organizations.

Star Jones, the Company's President, noted that "Our partnerships with these champions of diversity and inclusion underscores that PDN is a premier solution for employers who seek to recruit and hire diverse candidates." Jones added, "As a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha for over 30 years now, I am particularly proud to provide qualified diverse talent solutions through the organization that helped fuel my passion for diversity and inclusion as a young college student."

"These partnerships are essential building blocks for building relationships between employers and candidates. Expanding our network to include technology partners addresses a great need in the market. We are also proud the NAACP has continued to select PDN as an important partner in assisting minorities with job opportunities and economic growth," said Jim Kirsch, the Company's Executive Co-Chairman.
