"Southwest is dedicated to bringing Customers more nonstop flights to the places they want to go," said Kevin Krone, Southwest Airlines Vice President of Marketing, Sales, and Distribution. "We've grown tremendously in the past year. We have added nearly 200 daily departures to our schedule and announced that we will begin service to San Francisco this fall." The new Southwest Airlines flights break out as follows:

BEGINNING August 26, 2007:

- One new daily nonstop roundtrip between Manchester (Boston area) and Phoenix.
- One additional daily nonstop roundtrip between Phoenix and Salt Lake City (for a total of eight).

BEGINNING October 4, 2007:

- One additional daily nonstop roundtrip between Las Vegas and Raleigh-Durham (for a total of two).
- One additional daily nonstop roundtrip between Las Vegas and Seattle (for a total of four).

Southwest is offering special fares for the new nonstop flight between Manchester and Phoenix. Customers can take advantage of $99 one-way fares on this new service. These 14-day advance purchase fares are available for purchase beginning today through August 26, 2007, for travel beginning August 26, 2007, through the end of the schedule, currently November 2, 2007.

NEW SERVICE FARE SALE RULES
