This award recognizes Helios’ commitment to offering comprehensive, high-quality benefits that support the health, financial security, and overall well-being of its employees.

The Top Benefits Award is based on an in-depth, data-driven evaluation of an employer’s benefit offerings across four major categories: medical, ancillary (dental, vision, life and more), PTO and leave, and retirement plans.

Mployer independently assesses benefit plans by analyzing their design, cost-sharing, generosity, and other features—comparing them against a custom peer group of employers based on industry, geographic region, and size. Only employers who meet or exceed market standards across these core benefit categories are eligible for recognition.

“We are honored to receive this recognition for the second consecutive year, as it reflects our belief that investing in our people is essential to building a strong, high-performing organization,” said Shaun Polasky, Vice President, Human Resources at Helios. “At Helios, we are committed to creating an environment where our team members feel supported both professionally and personally through benefits that promote health, financial wellness, and work-life balance. Our people are the foundation of our success, and this recognition reinforces our ongoing commitment to attracting, developing, and retaining top talent around the world.”

This recognition reinforces Helios’ long-standing commitment to investing in its workforce. In an industry where talent is a critical driver of performance, offering best-in-class benefits is both an intentional investment and a competitive advantage that contributes to positive outcomes for our employees and customers, as well as to long-term business success.
