3DIcon Director Purchases Company's Stock

TULSA, Okla.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--3DIcon Corporation (OTCBB: TDCP), the developer of groundbreaking three-dimension projection and display technologies, today announced that Victor Keen, one of its directors, has purchased from the Company restricted stock for an investment of $100,000.

Board member Victor Keen commented, "Over the two years of service on the Board of 3DIcon I have come to understand and appreciate the commercial potential of the Company in the display field, most notably its volumetric display technology known as 'Cspace.' I believe that the strong management and technical team in place bodes well for the success of Cspace in a number of promising applications, including, in particular, medical display and airport security scanning. In addition, I am excited about the prospects for the Company's other proprietary display technologies, namely, Pixel Precision and the recently announced OLED flexible flat panel display and for its joint venture with Aria International Incorporated. At a current market capitalization of the Company of under $3 million, an additional investment in the Company at this time was, for me, most compelling."
