Ingram Micro Earns Highest EcoVadis Medal for Strong ESG Performance

IRVINE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Ingram Micro Inc. today announced the company has received a platinum medal rating from EcoVadis, a third-party provider of business sustainability ratings. Platinum is the highest recognition for ESG performance reserved for the top one percent of companies.

"This is an exciting milestone that affirms our commitment to responsible business practices, and our ability to take meaningful action that drives strong ESG performance," said John Marler, Director of Global ESG at Ingram Micro. "I'm honored to work with a talented team of associates across the globe whose dedication to our ESG strategy and goals made this recognition possible."

EcoVadis evaluates companies' ESG performance across four categories: Environment, Labour & Human Rights, Ethics and Sustainable Procurement. Ingram Micro received a score in the 99th percentile at 80 overall and across all four categories.

Ingram Micro launched dedicated environmental sustainability and ESG programs called IngramMicroPlanetary and IngramMicroESG, and made investments in its DE&I program, Together at Ingram Micro. Each of these programs is designed to improve the company's measurement, accountability, and collaboration in high-impact ESG areas to support goal attainment.
