SYDNEY and CHICAGO, April 28, 2025 – Please see attached communication to the Shareholders of James Hardie Industries plc (ASX / NYSE: JHX).

A copy will be available on James Hardie's investor relations website.

This communication has been authorized by the Chair of the Board of Directors of James Hardie Industries plc.

To the Shareholders of James Hardie Industries plc:

BACKGROUND

The Board of Directors of James Hardie Industries plc has maintained over many years corporate governance practices that align with the Australian Securities Exchange Corporate Governance Council's Corporate Governance Principles and Recommendations (4th Edition) and New York Stock Exchange corporate governance listing standards.

Following announcement of the AZEK transaction, members of management and the Board have engaged with many of our shareholders to discuss the transaction and how it would provide an opportunity to accelerate our growth strategy, enhance our financial profile and generate meaningful shareholder value for existing James Hardie investors. Following these discussions with our shareholders, the Board is publicly confirming below its position on key elements of corporate governance related to the AZEK transaction.

- We will continue to maintain an independent Chair and a majority of independent directors
- We will continue to align management remuneration with generation of shareholder value and continue to hold an advisory vote on remuneration each year
- We are not seeking Foreign Exempt listing status and would hold a shareholder vote before making any decision to change our ASX listing status

INDEPENDENCE OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND BOARD CHAIR

Our Board Charter requires that a majority of directors be independent and that the Chair of the Board be independent (Section 6.1 of our Board Charter). We are not changing these requirements in our Board Charter.

Upon completion of the AZEK transaction, two of the three directors from AZEK added to our Board will be independent. The only non-independent directors on our Board will be our CEO and the then former AZEK CEO. Anne Lloyd, an independent director, will remain as Chair of our Board. Though an independent Chair is not mandated under Australian, Irish or US corporate law, the Board has maintained the independent Chair requirement in alignment with the ASX Corporate Governance Council's Corporate Governance Principles and Recommendations and best practice recommendations of exchanges in the US and other jurisdictions.

MANAGEMENT REMUNERATION ALIGNMENT WITH SHAREHOLDERS

Our remuneration philosophy is to provide competitive pay for performance. Our remuneration framework emphasizes operational excellence and shareholder value creation through incentives that link management remuneration with the interests of shareholders. A significant portion of management remuneration is subject to the achievement of Board-approved performance criteria. We will continue to maintain key performance metrics that deliver on medium to long term shareholder value, like ROCE, and add metrics reflective of the value delivered by the combined company, such as achievement of cost and commercial synergies in expected timeframes. We believe this structure provides accountability and reflects our commitment to aligning the interests of management and our shareholders.

We will provide in our annual Remuneration Report the details relating to management remuneration and how that remuneration is aligned to the delivery of shareholder value, including performance metrics added to hold management accountable for delivering value from the AZEK transaction.

SHAREHOLDER VOTING ON REMUNERATION AND FOREIGN EXEMPT LISTING STATUS

We conduct an advisory vote on our Remuneration Report each year, and we will continue to do so following completion of the AZEK transaction. Further, the Board has no intention to seek ASX Foreign Exempt Listing status, and we would hold a shareholder vote before making any decision to change our ASX listing status.

Taking into consideration our significant Australian shareholder base and our listing on the ASX, we have voluntarily produced a remuneration report for non-binding shareholder approval since 2005. This is standard practice in many jurisdictions, and we believe it is an important element of corporate governance. We consider the results of this advisory vote each year.

Under our current standard ASX Listing, we are subject to the ASX listing requirement (LR 10.14) to obtain shareholder approval of equity issued to directors, including those who are members of management. This requirement will continue following completion of the AZEK transaction.

James Hardie Industries plc is committed to its corporate governance policies and practices, and this commitment will not change following completion of the AZEK transaction. We appreciate the opportunity to engage on our corporate governance framework with our shareholders, and we will continue to seek shareholder input on these topics.

This communication has been authorized by the Chair of the Board of Directors of James Hardie Industries plc.
