The Chambersburg location is the company's third distribution center in the U.S. and a key component of its 1,000 unit store growth strategy. Approximately 200 local workers will have been hired by mid-June to staff the facility. ULTA Beauty expects to hire about 200 more workers over the next 3-4 years as the facility reaches full capacity.

"Our new Northeast distribution center is an important part of ULTA Beauty's growth strategy and will support new store growth and online expansion," said Chuck Rubin, President and Chief Executive Officer. "With thousands of products being shipped on a daily basis both to our stores and directly to our e-commerce customers, we expect the facility to be busy and efficient. As an added benefit, we also welcome the opportunity to contribute to the economic growth of the local community in Chambersburg."

"ULTA's decision to relocate to Chambersburg is a testament to Governor Corbett's commitment pro job growth policies and the quality workforce here in Franklin County," Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development Secretary C. Alan Walker said. "The Corbett administration's goals are fairly simple. We want our state to be sound fiscally and we want a job for everyone who seeks one. ULTA will be adding over 400 jobs to the region."

A press conference and tour of the facility will take place at 2:00pm on June 13, 2012. Speakers will include: Chuck Rubin, President and CEO of ULTA Beauty and C. Alan Walker, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development. A private tour behind the scenes of the colorful and active distribution center will give media a sneak peak at the latest in digital distribution technologies.
