"I am so thrilled to see our Postbiotic Barrier Balm receive this level of recognition," said Brent Neidig, USANA's chief commercial officer. "Any time one of our products wins an award it's further proof of our products being among the best you can buy. This is great news for our company and our customers—it gives them yet another tool to show how USANA differs from the competition."

USANA Celavive's Postbiotic Barrier Balm is an ultra-hydrating cream with a balm-like finish to help soothe and visibly restore dry, visibly problematic skin. It's formulated with postbiotic

Lactobacillus Ferment, cupuacu butter, and five different ceramides to promote a happy and balanced complexion.

"Barrier Balm is an amazing product that has been among our top sellers since it launched last year," said Ashley Collins, USANA's executive vice president of marketing. "Our teams worked tirelessly to create and deliver this truly standout product. Thank you and congratulations to everyone at USANA involved in making Barrier Balm such a success."
