Fortive Announces New Global Industrial Company To Be Named Vontier

EVERETT, Wash.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Fortive Corporation ("Fortive") (NYSE: FTV) today announced that the name of the new global industrial company which is expected to separate from Fortive later this year will be Vontier Corporation ("Vontier"). Vontier will focus on transportation and mobility markets and will be comprised initially of a portfolio of leading retail and commercial fueling, fleet management, and professional tools brands, including Gilbarco Veeder-Root, Matco Tools, and Teletrac Navman.

Mark D. Morelli, who will serve as President and Chief Executive Officer of Vontier, stated, "The name Vontier comes from a combination of 'via', meaning a road or a way, and 'frontier', an expression of exploration and the pursuit of further progress. With its portfolio of leading brands and a strong track record of financial performance, Vontier stands to benefit from the continued growth across its established transportation and mobility end-markets. At the same time, the company is well positioned to capitalize on growth opportunities across a range of attractive, adjacent markets and emerging, mobility-related technologies."

"The Vontier Business System ("VBS") will be a key source of our competitive advantage, providing the foundation of our operating model and serving as the core of our culture," said Morelli. "The Vontier operating companies are steeped in the fundamentals of VBS and will carry forward a strong heritage grounded in a relentless commitment to continuous improvement. We look forward to pursuing the many growth opportunities ahead of us, as we maintain a keen focus on delivering long-term value to our employees and customers."

Vontier will be headquartered in Raleigh, North Carolina, and will employ approximately 8,400 people worldwide. The company's website is www.vontier.com.
