Guests are clearly demonstrating their readiness and eagerness to dine at Red Robin again and we believe this is being driven by the declining trajectory of new COVID-19 cases, the increasing number of people that are being vaccinated, and the desire to connect with family and friends in a safe and playful environment. As we move through the year, we are preparing ourselves for what we expect will be an ongoing and sustained recovery in our business, and have in place numerous growth drivers that will position us well from both a sales and profitability standpoint. We look forward to sharing our plans during our upcoming conference call."
