"We've worked with Digital Turbine for more than two years, and have seen tremendous success," said Mike Gubman, Head of Distribution, North America at TikTok. He continued, "Having a single point of contact for app distribution will accelerate our growth and simplify management, reporting and optimization of spend. We're excited to take this next step in our Digital Turbine partnership."

"TikTok is the trailblazer in short-form mobile video," said Bill Stone, CEO of Digital Turbine. "We're pleased to extend our partnership, further accelerating their growth and building upon our success in LATAM to the US. Our platform allows large global companies like TikTok unmatched global distribution. This efficiency is extremely difficult for any publisher to duplicate by negotiating and managing multiple individual carrier and OEM relationships."
