Tecogen Sells Multiple Chillers to Longtime Customer

WALTHAM, Mass., Dec. 2, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- Tecogen[®] Inc. (NASDAQ: TGEN) today announced the sale of multiple replacement TECOCHILL[®] chillers to returning customer Newport East. Located on New York City's Upper East Side, Newport East's 366-unit coop includes retail space as well as a heated rooftop swimming pool. Worth over half a million dollars, the new contract includes replacement of the aging units along with a renewed long-term service agreement for complete ongoing equipment maintenance.

"The true power of the TECOCHILL technology is most evident in the summertime when electricity rates are at their highest – often incurring peak-usage charges – but when natural gas pricing is 'off peak' and especially affordable. A double bonus for customers," noted Robert Panora, Tecogen President and Chief Operating Officer.

Offering the only natural gas powered chiller on the market, TECOCHILL systems can cut a building's cooling costs in half by eliminating most of the electrical demand associated with providing traditional cooling. Newport East's consistent heating and cooling needs make the site well suited for Tecogen's equipment as waste heat from the engine and exhaust are recycled to provide domestic hot water for residents. First installed in 1989, the original Tecogen equipment has reliably supplied central air-conditioning to the 19-floor building for over 25 years.

Speaking about the project, Panora added, "Receiving replacement orders from longtime customers is a validation of Tecogen's equipment and servicing model and a testament to the compelling value proposition we offer the market."
