SEI Canada Changes Distribution Policy for Two Monthly Income Funds

TORONTO, Dec. 21, 2016 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- SEI (NASDAQ:SEIC) Investments Canada Company, manager of the SEI Canada Mutual Funds, today announced changes to the distribution policies of the Conservative Monthly Income Fund and Balanced Monthly Income Fund.

Effective January 2017, SEI will change the distribution policy of these two funds, while the funds still expect to make distributions at the end of each month. The amount of the monthly distributions for Conservative Monthly Income Fund will be equal to approximately one-twelfth of 4 percent for each class of Conservative Monthly Income Fund units and approximately one-twelfth of 5 percent for each class of Balanced Monthly Income Fund units, calculated on the net asset value per unit on Dec. 31, 2016. The monthly distribution will generally consist of net income, net realized capital gains, and/or return of capital. The funds may make additional distributions in December, but only to the extent required to ensure that the funds will not pay income tax.

"We believe these new distribution rates will be more sustainable over time. There will still be a portion that consists of return of capital, so investors may be drawing down capital," said Andy Mitchell, Managing Director of SEI Canada. "But investments that can provide tax efficient cash flow are important tools, especially for those nearing or in retirement. These funds can serve investors well by providing a predictable monthly cash flow."

The distribution rates for the two funds will be recalculated each Dec. 31 and paid out at that rate for 12 months of the following calendar year. Depending on market conditions, a significant portion of a fund's distribution may be a return of capital for a certain period of time. The amount of the distributions is not guaranteed and may change from time to time without notice to unitholders. Distributions are automatically reinvested in additional units of the fund unless unitholders request otherwise. The annual and monthly distribution rates may be adjusted from time to time at SEI's discretion.
