Volato to Participate in Jefferies Virtual Business Aviation Summit

CEO Matt Liotta to discuss new aircraft leasing initiative and platform expansion

ATLANTA--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Volato Group, Inc. (NYSE American: SOAR), a technology-driven aviation company, today announced its participation in the Jefferies Virtual Business Aviation Summit taking place on June 5, 2025. Co-Founder and Chief Executive Officer Matt Liotta will be in attendance and available for one-on-one and small group meetings with summit attendees. To request a meeting, please contact your Jefferies representative.

The event comes as Volato introduces a new aircraft leasing strategy designed to place high-demand jets with third-party operators, creating a recurring and asset-light revenue stream. This approach builds on Volato's core strengths in sourcing and structuring transactions while extending its reach across a growing ecosystem of aviation partners and software users.

"We're not just leasing aircraft—we're building an infrastructure layer for the industry," said Matt Liotta, CEO of Volato. "By connecting supply, demand, and technology more intelligently, we're unlocking value that traditional models leave on the table."

Volato's participation in the summit aligns with its broader 2025 momentum, including profitable Q1 results, rapid growth in its Vaunt platform, and continued deployment of its proprietary Mission Control software.
