Commentary- Cheryl Beranek, President & CEO of Clearfield

"Posting record quarterly revenues and operating income is an indication of the ongoing support for the Clearfield value proposition among our customer base," comments Cheryl Beranek, president and CEO of Clearfield. "Gross profit numbers also improved nicely from the second quarter as higher value-add products were a stronger percentage of the product mix in the third quarter, manufacturing process improvements were recognized, and increased capacity utilization was achieved due to the higher manufacturing demands. The development of our channel programs, including distribution and OEM partnerships, continues to bring forth positive results.

"Activity within our core customer base of independent telephone companies has been softer than expected as these organizations absorb the funding changes being implemented as part of the Universal Service Fund and inter-carrier compensation reform. Pending court review as well as the upcoming fall election has placed the interpretation of these programs in flux. As a result, some of our customers are taking a step back from their build plans as they take a wait-and-see approach to governmental changes.

"However, activity within new and emerging markets is significant. Customers within the wireless markets of cell backhaul and Distributed Antenna Systems networks are responding enthusiastically to our unique ability to deliver fiber-fed enclosures, which team our pushable fiber solution with our FieldSmart fiber management platform. Customers throughout the market are recognizing how fiber, when pushed directly to the enclosure through a series of ruggedized microduct, can save labor costs while providing a superior level of fiber protection.

"Customer satisfaction measures continue to improve from their already high levels. Lead time, the average time between our receipt of purchase order and shipment of standard product, is now an industry-leading six days. The value of orders in backlog reflects this improvement in our planning process as we can now build a product to order in a week's time.

"Moving forward, we continue to advance the capabilities of our product line. New offerings will improve the density of the installation while reducing the cost of operation – both in space and labor initiatives. These technologies will enable our broadband service providers to dramatically reduce the footprint required for inside plant deployments. As service providers expand their data centers to provide cloud computing and other services, the ability to reduce space – and effectively their cost of real estate, will become increasingly important."
