regulated institutions and law firms. The global eDiscovery software market is projected to grow at a CAGR of 13% to $6.3 billion in 2024, according to Complex Discovery's aggregated eDiscovery market size mashup data.

"We are excited to add a leading eDiscovery application in the forensic, legal and compliance space to our standard product and service portfolio," says Ashley Legel, George Jon's Global Director of Sales and Business Development. "Veritone's operating system for AI, aiWARE, enables users of all levels to gain access to and leverage the capabilities of artificial intelligence in their day-to-day forensic and eDiscovery processes. We're thrilled to integrate Veritone's AI-powered translation, transcription and object identification software into our GJ Kits and establish this strategic alliance to put AI directly into the hands of our customers."

Whether your GJ Kit sits on premise, behind the firewall, or in a public or private cloud environment, Veritone and George Jon will collaborate to determine the appropriate, customized hardware and software solution for your unique needs, using George Jon's proven best practices.

"George Jon possesses deep, unmatched knowledge of eDiscovery platforms, products and processes," says Jon Gacek, Head of Government, Legal and Compliance at Veritone. "Our new alliance with George Jon allows global corporations, law firms and service providers to more quickly and seamlessly tap into Veritone's operating system for AI and leverage the power of Veritone aiWARE during their eDiscovery processes."
