Microchip Technology Provides Additional Information on Its Offering of Convertible Junior Subordinated Debentures and Announces Conference Call

CHANDLER, Ariz.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--

Microchip Technology Incorporated (NASDAQ: MCHP), a leading provider of microcontroller and analog semiconductors, has completed an offering of $1.03 billion aggregate principal amount of 2.125% convertible junior subordinated debentures due in 2037 with a conversion premium of 15%. The debentures were sold to qualified institutional buyers pursuant to Rule 144A under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. The sale closed on December 7, 2007. Microchip has granted to the initial purchasers of the debentures the right to purchase up to an additional $120 million aggregate principal amount of debentures solely to cover overallotments.

This debenture transaction has been structured with a no-call feature for 10 years, after which it can be called at any time that Microchip's stock price is 150% of the conversion price for 20 out of 30 trading days. Investors have no rights to put the bond to the Company during the 30-year life of the instrument.

Microchip purchased $639 million of its common stock concurrent with the debenture transaction. Microchip intends to use the remaining net proceeds, including any proceeds from the exercise of the overallotment option by the initial purchasers, for future share repurchases under existing or future repurchase programs under Rule 10b-18 and for general corporate purposes. The Company has purchased an additional $253 million of its common stock in open market transactions between July 30, 2007 and November 15, 2007.

"I am very pleased that we have completed this transaction, which has enabled us to modify our capital structure, reduce our cost of capital and generate future EPS accretion," said Steve Sanghi, Microchip's Chairman and CEO. "We believe that the transaction as completed on December 7 will be accretive to our earnings per share by approximately 15 cents on an annual basis, and assuming the overallotment is exercised and the additional buy back has been completed, the transaction will be accretive to our earnings by approximately 18 cents on an annual basis."

"We are also taking this opportunity to reconfirm our revenue guidance for the third quarter of fiscal 2008 ending December 31, 2007, with revenues expected to be flat to down 6% sequentially. We expect our EPS will be affected positively in the December quarter by one cent as a result of the closing of the convertible transaction, resulting in EPS guidance on a GAAP basis to now be 35 to 38 cents and on a non-GAAP basis guidance to be 36 to 39 cents," concluded Mr. Sanghi.
