The Jacuzzi® J5™ Collection includes Balboa's SpaTouch™ 4+ display, spa controller, and custom four-button auxiliary panel, providing an exclusive user interface for the spa.

The Jacuzzi® J5™ Collection includes Balboa's SpaTouch™ 4+ display, spa controller, and custom four-button auxiliary panel, providing an exclusive user interface for the spa. The platform also incorporates Balboa's Chromazon3™ lighting system, delivering multi-zone lighting control with millions of colors, adjustable brightness, and programmable lighting experiences. Together, Balboa's control and lighting architecture helps integrate key spa technologies including hydrotherapy, interior and exterior lighting modes, and the patented Jacuzzi® infrared therapy into a cohesive and intuitive wellness experience.

"Helios continues to invest in technologies that help our customers deliver differentiated experiences in the health and wellness market," said Billy Aldridge, President, Electronics of Helios Technologies. "Balboa Water Group's long-standing collaboration with Jacuzzi® Group demonstrates how advanced electronic controls, intuitive user interfaces, and integrated lighting technologies support the next generation of premium spa platforms."

"Our relationship with Balboa has been built over years of collaboration and an innovation-driven partnership," said Erica Moir, SVP of Product Development & Engineering at Jacuzzi® Group. "With the J5™ Collection, Balboa's control, display, and lighting technologies help enable the intuitive functionality and immersive wellness experience our customers expect from the Jacuzzi® brand."

The collaboration between Balboa and Jacuzzi® reflects more than a decade of partnership focused on advancing spa technology and delivering premium experiences for spa owners worldwide.
