Avalon Quantum AI teams up with Caylent and Amazon Web Services on Agentic AI Platform Development

AWS collaboration accelerates Catch-Up Phase 2 development to a fully autonomous Agentic AI Video Platform

FREEHOLD, N.J., April 21, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Avalon GloboCare Corp. (“Avalon” or the “Company”) (NASDAQ: ALBT), a technology-innovation company with a strategic focus on developing innovative products and services that serve growing consumer health and technology markets, today announced that its subsidiary, Avalon Quantum AI LLC, is collaborating with Amazon Web Services (“AWS”) to support Phase 2 development of its Catch-Up agentic AI video platform.

Caylent, Inc., an AWS Premier Tier Consulting Partner and a member of the AWS Generative AI Innovation Center’s Partner Innovation Alliance, has been appointed to lead the development. Phase 2 of the Catch-Up platform is expected to transform the video system from a manually-configured tool into a fully autonomous agentic AI video system. This will allow content creators without much technical expertise to effortlessly generate personalized video content across multiple social media platforms.

“We believe working with Caylent and the AWS Generative AI Innovation Center to support our platform development represents a significant validation of our technology and growth strategy,” stated Meng Li, Avalon’s Interim Chief Executive Officer and Chief Operating Officer. “This collaboration is expected to enable us to accelerate Phase 2 of our Catch-Up SaaS platform and advance its evolution into a fully autonomous, agentic AI solution with expanded capabilities and market reach. The work with AWS and Caylent strengthens our development roadmap and supports our ability to scale efficiently as we drive broader adoption and long-term monetization.”
