Telephonics Awarded AN/UPX-40 IFF Contract from the United States Air Force to Support the Royal Saudi Air Force AWACS Program

FARMINGDALE, N.Y., May 6, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Telephonics Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary of Griffon Corporation (NYSE:GFF), announced today that it has been awarded a $12.6M AN/UPX-40 contract from the United States Air Force. Through a Foreign Military Sales (FMS) agreement, Telephonics will supply its AN/UPX-40 Identification Friend or Foe (IFF) system to the Royal Saudi Air Force to support the country's E-3 Sentry (AWACS) program.

Recognized as an industry leader in the development of IFF technologies, Telephonics' next generation AN/UPX-40 will include Mode 5 capabilities allowing for expanded data handling transmissions without increasing interference.

The AN/UPX-40 IFF system was the first interrogator to be All-Mode certified, and can be configured for shipboard, airborne or ground-based applications allowing for mission systems to identify aircraft or ships as friendly or unknown.

"We are excited to be supporting the Royal Saudi Air Force through this FMS agreement," said Kevin McSweeney, Telephonics President. "The AN/UPX-40 is part of a family of IFF systems that are ready to meet the demands of the Mode 5 modernization program."
