Arkose Energy Provides Shareholder Update and Shifts Focus to Natural Gas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 24, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- Arkose Energy (OTC: RKOS) . Arkose Energy would like to update shareholders on current operational activities and plans for the rest of 2015 and first quarter of 2016.

CEO Trace Maurin stated "Further to our June 26th release, in which we provided an update on the 45 well reentry and work over program.

In light of the recent and uncertain slide in oil prices to $40.00 a barrel and most analyst forecast of $35.00 to $40.00 range for the remainder of 2015 and first half of 2016, making our current operations borderline economical.

Arkose has made a conscious decision to focus on Natural gas production. Over the course of the last month the company and identified Shut in Gas production and prospects in Texas and Western Canada.

Arkose is presently evaluating and in discussion on possible acquisitions, JV and farm in opportunities. The immediate benefits to Arkose are that in all instances the Wells are shut in with proven production and reserves.

With a small amount of Capex, Arkose can capitalize on immediate revenue and cash flow from production.

Natural gas finding costs and operation expenses are historically lower than oil, while market prices for Natural Gas have remained constant over the last year, thus providing stability to Arkose and the ability to plan ahead.

Stable Revenue from Gas Production, coupled with the fact that current natural gas prices vs Demand and supply are slated to rise, more so and quicker than oil, will position Arkose Energy to Capitalize on the vast opportunities that present itself during these volatile times.

We will continue to maintain our oil prospects and manage current production of 7 to 10 bbl/Day, but shift our focus and finances into Natural Gas.
