Equifax extends agreement with SBFE®

Continues to deliver comprehensive data-driven insights and solutions for businesses

ATLANTA, Feb. 28, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Equifax, a global information solutions company, has entered into a long-term extension to its agreement with the SBFE, also known as the Small Business Financial Exchange™. Equifax will continue to provide SBFE Members and other authorized customers with access to the SBFE's robust source of business lending data to help them grow and make better credit risk decisions.

"We are excited to extend our nearly 20-year partnership with the SBFE on a long-term basis," said Scott Spencer, SVP and GM, Equifax U.S. Commercial Services. "In combination with the investments we continue to make in our own Commercial Financial Network (CFN), we believe extending our partnership with the SBFE allows us to best serve our customers by providing the most differentiated data possible."

"We are excited about the continuation of our relationship with Equifax as a Certified Vendor," said Carolyn Hardin-Levine, CEO, SBFE. "Our Members rely on the SBFE's independent data governance controls to safeguard their business customer data. Equifax has been delivering solutions to our Members since the Small Business Financial Exchange's formation in 2001."

With the continuity of its agreement with SBFE, Equifax looks forward to continuing to offer the market innovative solutions.
