UiPath Announces the UiPath Connector on Salesforce AppExchange, the World's Leading Enterprise Cloud Marketplace

Dynamic integration with Salesforce, including a new app on AppExchange, makes it easy for customers to add world-class UiPath automations to their Salesforce experiences

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- UiPath, a leading enterprise Robotic Process Automation (RPA) software company, today announced the launch of UiPath Connector for Salesforce, available on Salesforce AppExchange.

The UiPath Connector for Salesforce enables customers to streamline complex workflows across multiple technologies by launching UiPath automations built natively on Salesforce. The application connects Salesforce to UiPath Orchestrator, a centralized robot management dashboard where customers can easily deploy, secure, and manage their UiPath robots. Users can launch UiPath automations in response to events in Salesforce via Flow Builder or Process Builder.

Built on the Salesforce Platform, the UiPath Connector for Salesforce is currently available on AppExchange at <https://appexchange.salesforce.com/listingDetail?listingId=a0N3A00000FtSNwUAN>.

The integration can help customers:

- Improve productivity by automating critical customer experience processes
- Simplify complex workflows that involve multiple systems, functions, or business units
- Accelerate return on investment by deploying and managing automations without costly development

For example, companies across industries can leverage the integration to improve response times to customer inquiries and facilitate better customer experiences.

“The integration between UiPath and Salesforce delivers more value to our joint customers and helps teams maximize productivity,” said Dhruv Asher, Senior Vice President of Alliances and Business Development at UiPath. “With the UiPath Connector for Salesforce, users can streamline complex workflows with ease -- all without custom development or invasive implementation.”

“We love seeing our partners build solutions like the UiPath Connector for Salesforce on AppExchange, as we realize our ecosystem is a big part of what brings the Salesforce vision to life,” said Taksina Eammano, VP of Product Management, AI and Automation at Salesforce. “Giving customers the ability to tap into automated solutions such as this empowers them to drive more productivity for their teams and improve experiences for their customers.”
