CarCharging Announces a New and Integrated Design for its CarCharging.com and BlinkNetwork.com Websites

Largest Owner, Operator, and Provider of Electric Vehicle Charging Services' Begins Initial Steps of Corporate Rebranding to Unify Identity and Solidify Leadership Position

HOLLYWOOD, FL -- (Marketwired) -- 08/02/17 -- Car Charging Group, Inc. (OTC: CCGI) ("CarCharging"), the largest owner, operator, and provider of electric vehicle (EV) charging services and the owner and operator of the Blink Network, announced the launch of a new and integrated version of the parent company's website, CarCharging.com, and the website of its largest operating entity, Blink Network. The website has a new simple and streamlined design, and provides information on the company, as well as its products and services.

EV drivers, property owners and managers, and investors can find the following information on the integrated website:

- EV charging equipment options, benefits of having EV charging stations, and the business models available for all property types
- EV charging locations, instructions, fees, and frequently asked questions
- Data and features available via the Blink Network, the cloud-based software that operates, manages, and tracks the Blink EV charging stations and all the associated data
- Links to download Blink Mobile application, available for both iOS and Android
- Authorized reseller opportunities
- Company announcements and investor information

"After several years of managing separate websites for CarCharging and Blink Network, the time has come to integrate them as the market enters an accelerated growth period," stated Mike Calise, CarCharging's Chief Executive Officer. "The integration of CarCharging.com and BlinkNetwork.com is the digital representation of the first steps of our corporate rebranding, which will allow us to unify our identity and solidify our leadership position within the EV charging market."
