

Gladstone Land Reports No Damage to California Farms from Wildfires

MCLEAN, Va., Oct. 12, 2017 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Gladstone Land Corporation (NASDAQ:LAND) ("Gladstone Land" or the "Company") announced today that none of its farms or farm-related buildings in California have been impacted by the wildfires that are spreading in the northern part of the state.

"Our closest farms are well over 100 miles away from the edge of these fires and are separated by large bodies of water, so we do not believe they are at risk of being damaged by these wildfires," said David Gladstone, President and CEO of Gladstone Land. "While our thoughts and prayers go out to those impacted by the wildfires, we are fortunate that our farms have remained unscathed, just as we were fortunate to escape damage on our Florida farms from the recent hurricanes and tropical storms. However, we stand ready to back our tenants should they need our help."
