

Gladstone Land Announces California Farmland Acquisition

MCLEAN, VA / ACCESSWIRE / December 14, 2020 /Gladstone Land Corporation (NASDAQ:LAND) ("Gladstone Land" or the "Company") announced that it has acquired 236 acres of farmland located in Fresno County, California, which are expected to be used to grow almond trees, for $3.6 million. In connection with the acquisition, Gladstone Land also entered into a 20-year lease agreement with an existing tenant.

"We are very pleased to increase our land base near Kerman, California," said Tony Marci, Managing Director of Gladstone Land. "This acquisition is adjacent to one of our existing farms leased by the same tenant, which will allow them to efficiently expand their operations."

"We are excited to build on our relationship with an existing tenant," said David Gladstone, President and CEO of Gladstone Land. "The incoming tenant on this farmland acquisition will plant almonds on the farm, adding to our acreage growing nut crops, which is an important part of our overall farmland holdings. We are continuing to evaluate a very robust list of farms to buy in the near-term future, as we work towards a strong end to 2020 and a good start for 2021."
