Inpixon Secures Purchase Order for Hundreds of High-End, Next-Generation, Multi-Tech RF Sensors for U.S. Federal Government

PALO ALTO, Calif., Aug. 27, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- Inpixon (Nasdaq: INPX), the Indoor Intelligence™ company, today announced it has received a purchase order for hundreds of high-end, next-generation, multi-tech radio frequency (RF) sensors for a U.S. federal government customer.

Inpixon multi-tech RF sensors detect and locate active Wi-Fi, Bluetooth, cellular and UWB wireless transmissions emanating from phones, smartwatches, tablets, computers, access points, IoT devices and more. Inpixon security solutions are designed to help corporate enterprises and governmental agencies combat theft of confidential information while enhancing safety and operational efficiency by providing visibility into the location of visitors, wireless devices, key personnel and critical assets within a facility. Inpixon security solutions have earned multiple industry honors including the Security Excellence Award and the IoT Sensor Company of the Year Award.

Soumya Das, COO of Inpixon, stated, "Our newest generation of multi-tech sensors demonstrate our continuing commitment to providing customers with comprehensive security solutions that assist organizations in creating a smarter, safer and more secure environment for personnel, visitors and assets. We are pleased to receive this purchase order from a U.S. federal government customer and believe this is further evidence of the continued recognition of the value of our solutions. We expect additional, significant high-margin orders in the months and years ahead from security-sensitive governmental and private facilities to address their growing physical and cybersecurity threats."
