

Information Systems Associates Acquires 3% Stake in Schlep2p International

Schlep2p Developing Friendship-Based Ride Sharing Platform

ISA Secures Option to Acquire All Technology IP Rights

CORAL SPRINGS, FL -- (Marketwired) -- 11/12/14 -- Information Systems Associates (OTCQB: IOSA) has executed a definitive agreement with Schlep^{2p} International LLC (Schlep) and completed its acquisition of a 3% ownership interest in Schlep. The companies had previously announced that they had executed a term sheet calling for collaboration in a variety of areas including technical, financial and managerial oversight. In addition to the minority stake, ISA has secured an option to acquire all of the remaining technology and intellectual property rights of Schlep for $3.23M in cash and/or preferred stock of ISA. Schlep is developing a friendship-based ride-sharing platform where friends can share rides with nearby friends at the tap of a button on their mobile devices. Recently, ride-sharing companies like Uber and Lyft have been growing exponentially across the country and abroad.

"During our original discussions, we expected to add the Schlep platform through a minority ownership interest to broaden our technology business," said Adrian Goldfarb, ISA's President and CFO. "Since that time, it has become apparent that the objectives of ISA and Schlep are better served by cooperating on technology and jointly developing our businesses." As he previously stated, the Company has been heavily engaged in looking for innovative technology startups to both partner with and invest in. "Now that we have secured the minority ownership we are working hard to significantly expand our business potential by acquiring certain assets and all of the intellectual property of Schlep's promising enterprise." Mr. Goldfarb went on to say that although the original intent was to make the technology partnership part of the TrueVue 360 platform, the opportunity has significantly expanded and is likely to become the mainstay of the ISA's business in the near future.

Rachel Lam, Schlep's founder and CEO stated, "I am delighted at how our collaborative efforts have grown with ISA since our initial discussions. I am confident that from this initial investment along with the ongoing development and upcoming launch of our various technology platforms, ISA will exercise its option to acquire all of our intellectual property."

Schlep is in the final development stages of their platform and will be announcing the first version of their ride-sharing application along with a new merchant platform within 90 days. The Companies have already begun technical cooperation in advance of signing further agreements.
