Vuzix' 4Q25 Shipments of AI-Powered Smart Glasses to Leading Global Online Retailer Approach $1 Million

- Current quarter follow-on orders and shipments of Vuzix M400 kits expand and enhance customer's warehouse operations

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 28, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- Vuzix® Corporation (NASDAQ: VUZI), ("Vuzix" or, the "Company"), a leading supplier of AI-powered smart glasses, waveguides, and Augmented Reality (AR) technologies, today announced it has received and fulfilled a series of follow-on volume orders in the fourth quarter of 2025 for custom M400 smart glasses kits totaling nearly $1 million from one of the world's largest online retail companies.

These orders reflect this customer's accelerating adoption of Vuzix smart glasses supporting its warehouse infrastructure operations. After strong results from initial deployments in Europe, the program has now entered commercial rollout across the U.S. and Canada, with active discussions underway to extend smart glasses usage into additional regions, business units, and workflow applications.

"Our technology continues to demonstrate real-world impact for some of the most sophisticated logistics organizations on the planet," said Paul Travers, President and Chief Executive Officer at Vuzix. "This customer is scaling use of our smart glasses because they streamline warehouse operations—enabling remote experts to diagnose and resolve equipment issues in real time, improving maintenance workflows, enhancing safety, accelerating repairs, and increasing overall productivity across large-scale fulfillment centers. We're proud to support customers who are actively deploying wearable technologies to drive efficiency and advance their digital transformation."
