The funding will be used to support the Company's ongoing operations and advance clinical programs in multiple sclerosis, degenerative disc disease, wound care, extension of life, and cancer.

"We're excited to partner with StartEngine on this campaign. StartEngine has over 600,000 investors as part of their community and has raised over half a billion dollars for its clients," said FibroBiologics' Founder and CEO, Pete O'Heeron. "This is an exciting time at FibroBiologics as we continue progressing our clinical pipeline and developing innovative therapies to treat chronic diseases. This new funding will fuel our growth in the lab and bring us one step closer to commercialization."
