Codexis Signs Multi-Year Enzyme Supply and Licensing Agreement with Tate & Lyle for the Manufacture of TASTEVA® M Stevia Sweetener

Codexis' breakthrough enzyme cascade system enables better-tasting stevia product launch

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., April 30, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Codexis, Inc. (NASDAQ: CDXS), a leading protein engineering company, announces the signing of a multi-year agreement with Tate & Lyle, a global provider of food ingredients and solutions, for the supply and licensing of novel Codexis performance enzymes used in the manufacture of Tate & Lyle's TASTEVA® M Stevia Sweetener.

"The collaboration to develop jointly the breakthrough TASTEVA® M process is the second successful food and beverage ingredient process innovation partnership between Tate & Lyle and Codexis," said John Nicols, Codexis President and Chief Executive Officer. "Each of those projects rapidly progressed from concept to commercializable process and, in fact, partnering on the TASTEVA® M process was initiated just over two years ago (link). We expect over time that our enzymes for TASTEVA® M will become among our leading revenue-producing products in our Performance Enzyme portfolio."

"The partnership model is a hallmark of speed and innovation for both partners, leveraging the global market and manufacturing reach of Tate & Lyle together with the unique technological capabilities and speed of Codexis," said Andrew Taylor, Tate & Lyle President of Innovation and Commercial Development. "Initial customer interest in this new, better tasting stevia sweetener has been strong, with some nutrition and bakery products formulated with TASTEVA® M already commercially available."

About Tate & Lyle
