Codexis Announces CodeEvolver® Technology Transfer and License Agreement with Global Pharmaceutical Leader

Third CodeEvolver® licensing agreement with a major pharma company

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., May 15, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Codexis, Inc. (Nasdaq: CDXS), a leading protein engineering company, announces the signing of a CodeEvolver® platform agreement with Novartis. Under the terms of the agreement, Codexis has granted a non-exclusive license to its proprietary CodeEvolver® protein engineering platform technology to Novartis to develop novel performance enzymes for use in manufacturing pharmaceutical products. Upon completion of the technology transfer, the CodeEvolver® protein engineering platform will be located at a Novartis site.

Under the terms of the agreement, Novartis will pay Codexis an upfront payment, milestone payments upon the satisfactory completion of technology transfer and payments for improvements to the CodeEvolver® platform technology. Also, Codexis will be eligible to receive payments for active pharmaceutical ingredients manufactured with enzymes developed by Novartis using the CodeEvolver® technology. In addition, Codexis receives certain rights for future purchases of enzymes developed and sourced by Novartis using the CodeEvolver® technology.

“Novartis has been a highly valued Codexis customer for nearly a decade, and we’ve been very pleased to see the accelerating and widening of our R&D collaborations together especially over the past several years. Taking this next step to bring our CodeEvolver® technology in-house, Novartis is the latest leading pharmaceutical company to validate the very wide applicability of enzymatic catalysis across its extensive small molecule drug pipeline,” said Codexis President and CEO John Nicols. “We look forward to serving and deepening our partnership with Novartis in this new chapter from here.”

About Codexis, Inc.
