Equinix Political Contributions Report

Under Equinix's Political Contributions Policy, we are committed to reporting the details of any contribution—including identification of the organization or candidate, and amount contributed—in a political contributions report published on a semi-annual basis. This report also discloses details of our trade associations where membership dues exceed $50,000.

December 2024

The following report reflects political contribution activities by Equinix for the six months between July 1, 2024 and December 31, 2024.

Political contributions:
- Equinix currently does not have a corporate Political Action Committee (PAC).
- For the time period between July 1, 2024, through December 31, 2024, Equinix did not make any contributions at any level of government to political campaigns, political parties, or other organizations that are involved in political campaigns.
- As required under the Lobby Disclosure Act, Equinix filed its Lobbying Contribution Report (report form LDA-203) with the U.S. Congress in January 2025. This filing covers activities from July 1, 2024, through December 31, 2024. The Lobby Contribution Report requires entities to disclose PACs that they control as well as contributions of more than $200 made to federal candidates and other PACs, federal campaigns, and party committees. Entities are also required to disclose contributions made to events or organizations that are named for or are in honor of congressional or executive branch officials.
- The Equinix Lobby Contributions Report, accordingly, indicates that no political contributions were made in the specified time period. The report can be found here.

Trade association participation:
- Equinix belongs to five trade associations to which it pays membership dues of $50,000 or more. These associations are: The Information Technology Industry Council (ITI; www.itic.org); the Data Center Coalition (DCC; www.datacentercoalition.org); The National Association of Real Estate Investment Trusts (Nareit; www.reit.com/nareit); The U.S. Chamber of Commerce selected Americas Business Councils (U.S. Chamber Americas Program: https://www.uschamber.com/program/international-affairs/americas) and the European Data Center Association (EUDCA; www.eudca.org).
