Airgain® and Cloudleaf Announce Partnership

LAS VEGAS--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Airgain, Inc. \(NASDAQ: AIRG\), a leading provider of advanced wireless connectivity systems, today announced a partnership with Cloudleaf, Inc., a SaaS-based digital supply chain platform. Airgain's NimbeLink® Asset Trackers will supply critical location and condition data to the Cloudleaf platform to enable real-time decision-making regarding assets and shipments across the globe.

Airgain's NimbeLink Asset Trackers are one of the industry's leading battery-operated cellular, GPS and WiFi-based solution, catering to the need for indoor, outdoor, and in-transit tracking with one device and no additional infrastructure. They offer the option to monitor not only location, but environmental conditions such as temperature, humidity, motion and more. Cloudleaf's SaaS digital intelligence platform leverages supply chain, edge, IoT and contextual data to provide one of the world's leading end-to-end supply chain digital twin solution to manage risk and volatility in product flows. Together Cloudleaf and NimbeLink are providing organizations with novel solutions for monitoring the location and condition of critical components in the supply chain.

"Cloudleaf has been an outstanding partner for our Asset Trackers" said Larry Plunkett, Director of Business Development for Asset Tracking at Airgain. "Together with the NimbeLink Asset Tracker product portfolio and Cloudleaf's supply chain operations platform, we can solve real-world problems in the global supply chain, particularly at this critical time."

"Cloudleaf is excited to work with Airgain and their NimbeLink line of asset trackers," said Ken Carpenter, Cloudleaf Vice President of Partnerships. "Not only are NimbeLink asset trackers some of the most reliable in the market, with ruggedized housing and up to 14 years of battery life, but they can track almost any condition including location, motion, temperature, humidity, light, and more. With the NimbeLink Asset Trackers connected to Cloudleaf's platform, the level of supply chain visibility is unmatched."
