TeraWulf Announces April 2023 Production and Operations Updates

Increased hash rate capacity by over 21% month-over-month to 4 EH/s as of April 30, 2023.

Self-mined 239 BTC in April and 771 BTC year to date in 2023.

Fully deployed 50 MW of self-mining capacity at the Nautilus facility ahead of schedule.

EASTON, Md.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- TeraWulf Inc. (Nasdaq: WULF) ("TeraWulf" or the "Company"), owners and operators of vertically integrated, domestic bitcoin mining facilities powered by more than 91% zero-carbon energy, today provided an unaudited monthly production and operations update for April 2023.

April 2023 Highlights

- Fully energized its 50 MW stake at the Nautilus facility, the first Bitcoin mining facility powered by 100% nuclear power in the U.S.
- Self-mined 239 bitcoin in April with an average production rate of 8 bitcoin per day.
- Power cost averaged $7.6k per bitcoin produced, or approximately $0.030/kWh in April.
- Deployed fleet of 34,500 miners, comprised of 18,500 miners at its wholly owned Lake Mariner facility in New York and 16,000 self-miners at the nuclear-powered Nautilus facility in Pennsylvania.
- Completing construction on Building 2 at the Lake Mariner facility, where an additional 50 MW of self-mining capacity remains on target to come online in Q2 2023.

Key Metrics ¹	April 2023

Power Cost per Bitcoin	$7,602

² Includes BTC earned from profit sharing associated with short-term hosting agreement at the Lake Mariner facility and TeraWulf's net share of BTC produced at the Nautilus facility.

³ Includes TeraWulf's net share of BTC revenue generated at the Nautilus facility and profit sharing from hosting agreement.

⁴ Excludes BTC earned from profit sharing associated with short-term hosting agreement at the Lake Mariner facility.

⁵ Includes TeraWulf's net share of power cost incurred at the Nautilus facility.

⁶ Includes gross total hash rate of miners hosted on short-term agreement at the lake Mariner facility.

Management Commentary

"The increase in our hash rate this month more than offsets April's significant increase in network difficulty, enabling the Company to deliver a month-over-month increase in bitcoin produced," stated Kerri Langlais, Chief Strategy Officer of TeraWulf. "Additionally, with a realized average cost of power of only three cents per kilowatt hour coupled with an average availability during the month in excess of 98%, we steadily increased profit margins month over month despite challenging market conditions." added Langlais.

"From an operational perspective, we are eager and diligently preparing for the energization of Building 2 at Lake Mariner in the coming weeks, which will nearly double the size of our existing operations in New York from 60 MW to more than 110 MW, and bring the Company's total operational mining capacity to 160 MW and 5.5 EH/s."

Production and Operations Update

As of April 30, 2023, the Company had an operational miner fleet of approximately 34,500 of the latest generation miners, comprised of 18,500 miners at its wholly owned Lake Mariner facility in New York (5,000 of which are hosted) and 16,000 self-miners at the nuclear-powered Nautilus facility in Pennsylvania.

TeraWulf is in the final stages of construction on Building 2, which will increase Lake Mariner's operational capacity to over 110 MW in the coming weeks. Combined, the Company expects to have a total operational capacity of 50,000 miners (5.5 EH/s) in Q2 2023, representing approximately 160 MW of power demand.

About TeraWulf

TeraWulf (Nasdaq: WULF) owns and operates vertically integrated, environmentally clean Bitcoin mining facilities in the United States. Led by an experienced group of energy entrepreneurs, the Company currently has two Bitcoin mining facilities: the wholly owned Lake Mariner facility in New York, and Nautilus Cryptomine facility in Pennsylvania, a joint venture with Cumulus Coin, LLC. TeraWulf generates domestically produced Bitcoin powered by nuclear, hydro, and solar energy with a goal of utilizing 100% zero-carbon energy. With a core focus on ESG that ties directly to its business success, TeraWulf expects to offer attractive mining economics at an industrial scale.
