Ingram Micro Adds Dropbox, Cirius and BitTitan Solutions to Its Automated Cloud Services Platform in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, MEXICO -- (Marketwired) -- 09/13/16 -- Ingram Micro Inc. (NYSE: IM) today announced that three new vendor solutions have been added in Mexico to the Ingram Micro Cloud Marketplace, a leading automated cloud services platform that enables partners to purchase, provision, manage, and invoice cloud technology with ease.

This brings the total number of cloud solutions available through Ingram Micro in Mexico to a dozen.

With these new additions, Ingram Micro Cloud ™ has significantly enhanced its Security and Communication & Collaboration cloud solution offerings:

- Dropbox for Business - Dropbox for Business is a leading provider of file sharing and collaboration services. Built on a highly scalable and secure infrastructure, Dropbox Business offers a centralized administration console for users to easily access, manage, and backup critical workloads across multiple devices, as well as seamless integration with hundreds of existing third-party solutions.
- Cirius - Cirius protects and secures internal and external communications through a powerful combination of secure email encryption, large file transfer, and advanced message control. Cirius makes it easy for users to share messages and files securely on any device, maintaining regulatory compliance and safeguarding proprietary data.
- BitTitan - Designed to support a seamless business transition, BitTitan delivers an automated end-to-end migration and onboarding experience for complementary cloud services such as Microsoft Office 365.

"As more Mexican businesses continue shifting their infrastructure to the cloud, we have worked hard to expand our core offerings with broader solutions to meet our partners' evolving needs," said Luis Ferez, vice president & chief country executive, Ingram Micro Mexico. "We are excited to announce these market leading communications and security solutions are now available on our platform."

"Ingram Micro continues to provide the innovative resources that help us preserve our trusted IT advisor status with customers," said Octavio Máynez, General Manager at Foro Web. "We are excited to leverage a broader cloud catalog, powered by a leading automated marketplace to accelerate our go-to-marketing capabilities and effectively address business demand."
