As a pioneer in rugged device design and manufacturing since 2007, Sonim is redefining what ultra-rugged means to the enterprise. The XP10 is not the typical rugged phone. Packed with new and improved features including a lighter, sleeker ultra-rugged design, longer lasting removable battery and more, the XP10 is a mobile toolbox for those who work in mission critical situations and need one-touch communications with 5G performance.

"We are excited to announce that the XP10 will be available to a wider global audience early next year," said Robert Reeve, vice president, international sales, Sonim. "The global unlocked version of the XP10 is network agnostic, a perfect option for users who want the flexibility to find a plan and network that best meets their needs at a reasonable price."
