KORE Extends Global Reach in Powering the Internet of Things

ALPHARETTA, Ga.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- KORE, the people powering the Internet of Things (IoT) innovations and opportunities, today announced continued global reach, sharing best practices at events in the Middle East and in South America. In October, KORE business leaders contributed insight with attendees at the GITEX event in Dubai, the NatransXpo in Abu Dhabi and at Futurecom in Sao Paulo. KORE is the sixth largest global provider of M2M/IoT services, on track for further geographic expansion and continued growth in 2017.

KORE's Vince Jager presented at the GITEX Technology Week, and addressed key IoT topics such as sustainable transportation and smart cities at the NatransXpo. Meanwhile, KORE's Brazil operations lead, Sergio Souza, delivered IoT best practices to attendees at Futurecom. As a leader in software service and platforms that power the IoT, KORE continues to expand its global role as the brand inside and powering other brands, including some of the world's largest enterprise customers.

"In the global economy, the IoT extends far beyond the smart home or community. Devices must be enabled to operate in a wide range of environments with a diverse range of technologies and regulatory requirements," said KORE CEO Alex Brisbane. "KORE is the proven leader, with the ability to execute IoT innovations and deployments across oceans, borders and previous boundaries."

KORE provides software services, enterprise applications, broad platform services and connectivity to empower new business models and opportunities to monetize strategic IoT initiatives across the globe. The company manages millions of devices supported by 350 IoT specialists serving customers in 110 countries.
