Herbalife Announces Proposed Offering of $500 Million Aggregate Principal Amount of Convertible Senior Notes

LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Herbalife Ltd. (NYSE: HLF) (the "Company") today announced that it intends, subject to market and other conditions, to offer $500 million aggregate principal amount of convertible senior notes due 2024 (the "Convertible Notes") in a private offering to qualified institutional buyers pursuant to Rule 144A under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act").

Final terms of the Convertible Notes, including the initial conversion price, interest rate and certain other terms of the Convertible Notes will be determined at the time of pricing. The Convertible Notes will be senior, unsecured obligations of the Company, and are expected to pay interest semiannually and upon conversion will be settled, at the Company's election, in cash, the Company's common shares, or a combination thereof, based on a conversion rate to be determined at the pricing of the Convertible Notes. The Convertible Notes will mature on March 15, 2024, unless redeemed, repurchased or converted in accordance with their terms prior to such date. Prior to December 15, 2023, the Convertible Notes will be convertible only upon the occurrence of certain events and during certain periods, and thereafter, at any time until the second scheduled trading day immediately preceding the maturity date.

The Company expects to use the net proceeds from the offering to repurchase a portion of the Company's existing 2.00% convertible senior notes due 2019 (the "Existing Convertible Notes") from a limited number of holders in privately negotiated transactions and for general corporate purposes.

The Company expects that, in connection with the intended repurchase of a portion of the Existing Convertible Notes, those holders of the Existing Convertible Notes that sell their Existing Convertible Notes to the Company may enter into or unwind various derivatives with respect to the Company's common shares and/or purchase or sell the Company's common shares in the market to hedge their exposure in connection with these transactions. In particular, the Company expects that many holders of the Existing Convertible Notes employ a convertible arbitrage strategy with respect to the Existing Convertible Notes and have a short position with respect to the Company's common shares that they would close or reduce, through purchases of the Company's common shares and/or the entry into various derivatives with respect to the Company's common shares, in connection with the Company's repurchase of their Existing Convertible Notes, including over a valuation period to be agreed separately with each such holder of Existing Convertible Notes that the Company expects to commence on the trading day immediately following the pricing of the Convertible Notes. This activity could result in an increase (or reduce the size of any decrease) in the market price of the Company's common shares at that time.

In connection with the Company's intended repurchase of Existing Convertible Notes, the Company expects to enter into agreements with the option counterparties to the capped call transactions entered into by the Company in connection with the Existing Convertible Notes, at one or more times concurrently with or following the pricing of the Convertible Notes, to terminate a portion of such existing capped call transactions, in each case, in a notional amount corresponding to the amount of such Existing Convertible Notes repurchased. In connection with any termination of existing capped call transactions and the related unwinding of the existing hedge position of the existing option counterparties with respect to such transactions, such existing option counterparties and/or their respective affiliates may sell the Company's common shares in secondary market transactions, and/or enter into or unwind various derivative transactions with respect to the Company's common shares, including over one or more valuation periods to be agreed separately with each such existing option counterparty at least one of which the Company expects to commence on the trading day immediately following the pricing of the Convertible Notes. This activity could result in a decrease (or reduce the size of any increase) in the market price of the Company's common shares at that time. In connection with these transactions, the Company expects to separately receive payments and/or deliveries of the Company's common shares in connection with the partial unwind of such existing capped call transactions in amounts that depend on the market price of the Company's common shares at such times as agreed with the existing option counterparties.

This press release is neither an offer to sell nor a solicitation of an offer to buy the Convertible Notes or the common shares issuable upon conversion of the Convertible Notes, nor shall there be any sale of these securities in any state or jurisdiction in which such an offer, solicitation or sale would be unlawful prior to the registration or qualification under the securities laws of any such state or jurisdiction. Any offer, if at all, will be made only pursuant to Rule 144A under the Securities Act.

The Convertible Notes and any common shares issuable upon conversion of the Convertible Notes have not been and are not expected to be registered under the Securities Act, or the securities laws of any other jurisdiction, and may not be offered or sold in the United States absent registration or an applicable exemption from registration requirements.
