Herbalife Nutrition's Gary Swanson to Present at the AOAC INTERNATIONAL Midyear Meeting on Building a Quality Management System for Dietary Supplements

LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Herbalife Nutrition, a premier global nutrition company, announced today that its senior vice president of Global Quality, Gary Swanson, will be presenting at the 2022 AOAC INTERNATIONAL Midyear Meeting on March 17, 2022 in Gaithersburg, MD. Swanson's presentation, titled "Quality Management System Framework for Dietary Supplements Containing Botanicals," will detail the complexities, challenges and strategies for taking dietary supplement products from concept to market.

"As a leader in providing science backed nutrition products, we have earned consumer trust by implementing rigorous quality control measures from the seed to the time the product reaches consumers," said Swanson. "This presentation provides insight into what we consider during formula concept review, ingredient selection and approval, manufacturing performance and post-market quality surveillance and stability," said Swanson.

The AOAC INTERNATIONAL Midyear Meeting is a hands-on working meeting that brings together members, organizations, and experts dedicated to food safety and integrity by developing and validating standards, methods, and technologies for food production. Members seek to advance needed analytical methods through dialog and consensus and empower the scientific community to take the lead on addressing global issues. A key element of the meeting is the Analytical Solutions Forum, where global stakeholders identify new technologies and emerging analytical needs for food safety and integrity and propose actions to address those needs.
