OPKO Health's BioReference Laboratories Announces New York City Schools COVID-19 Testing Program

The COVID-19 testing program will test principals, teachers and staff in preparation for a safer back-to-school environment

ELMWOOD PARK, N.J., Sept. 2, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- BioReference Laboratories, Inc., an OPKO Health company (NASDAQ:OPK), today began testing New York City principals, teachers and other staff for COVID-19, across the five boroughs, in preparation for a safer back-to-school environment.

Through a strategic collaboration with BioReference, New York City, the Department of Health and New York City Health and Hospital Corporation (NYC Health + Hospitals) will collect specimens from principals, teachers and staff members across eight locations. BioReference will then perform COVID-19 PCR tests for the principals, teachers and other school staff at its Elmwood Park, New Jersey laboratory facility. The hours of operation for collection of specimens will be 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. ET, Monday through Sunday, beginning today and concluding Monday, September 7. Registration and appointment selection is required. To register for collection of a specimen for a COVID-19 test, visit: <https://appointments.bioreference.com/nycschools>.

"As NYC schools prepare for the upcoming year, COVID-19 testing will play a pivotal role in supporting a safer overall classroom environment for educators, students and their families," said Jon R. Cohen, M.D., Executive Chairman of BioReference Laboratories. "The systematic measures put in place by New York City reaffirm the dedication to safety and education in New York City."
