Culture Kings Announces Official Partnership With Rolling Loud Miami

Brand Named Official Streetwear Retailer In Global Partnership With The Famed Music Festival

LAS VEGAS--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Culture Kings, a leading international streetwear brand, today announced an official partnership with Rolling Loud, the famed hip-hop music festival. Following an incredibly successful debut at Rolling Loud California earlier this year, Culture Kings will be the official streetwear retailer of Rolling Loud Miami 2023 and additional festival locations globally in 2024.

Through the expanded partnership, Culture Kings will curate an exclusive Rolling Loud capsule collection for each festival that will capture the essence and culture of each city. The Miami collection will feature exclusive merchandise inspired by vintage Miami patterns and graphics. The limited-edition collection will be available to Rolling Loud Miami festival attendees and fans through an on-site pop-up store at the festival and on the Culture Kings website.

In addition to the capsule collection, there will be an official Culture Kings branded stage at the music festival, which will be home to top-tier talent such as Freddie Gibbs, Sheck Wes, and Armani White. The brand will also build a full-sized Culture Kings branded basketball court open to festival-goers and provide exclusive giveaways.

"Fans at Rolling Loud know that merchandise is incredibly important to us," said Rolling Loud Co-Founders Matt Zingler and Tariq Cherif. "We are committed to offering a variety of fresh and comfortable options that aren't just festival mementos, but fashion pieces in their own right. Culture Kings is a company that shares our passion for combining music and fashion in a way that pushes the culture forward, and we are excited for fans to see our new merchandise collaboration and all of the exciting artists performing on the Culture Kings Stage."

"We are thrilled to expand our partnership with Rolling Loud," said Jon Yuska, President of Culture Kings U.S. "Rolling Loud has created incredible festival experiences across the world, and Culture Kings is excited to be a part of that story. From the emerging talent showcased on the Culture Kings Stage and the epic Rolling Loud x Culture Kings capsule collections to the custom-built CK basketball court, we're primed to deliver the magic that happens at the collision of music, fashion, and culture."
