ForgeRock Named a Leader in 2020 Gartner Magic Quadrant for Access Management

ForgeRock Identity Platform Stands Out for Delivering Secure Digital Experiences Achieves Highest Score for Adaptive Access and Authorization Capabilities

SAN FRANCISCO--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- ForgeRock®, a leading digital identity provider, today announced it has been positioned by Gartner, Inc. as a Leader in the 2020 Gartner Magic Quadrant for Access Management*. ForgeRock was among 11 vendors evaluated in the report.

The ForgeRock Identity Platform is the only platform on the market today that includes full-suite identity and access management (IAM) and identity governance and administration (IGA) capabilities. It offers comprehensive capabilities for all identities — workforce, consumers and things. ForgeRock gives its customers the flexibility and choice to deploy its platform anyway they want: in a private cloud or on-prem, on a public cloud like Amazon AWS or Google Cloud Platform, or by taking advantage of the ForgeRock Identity Cloud, which offers the full platform delivered as a service. The platform's single code base across all these deployment models ensures that organizations have all the functionality and performance required to deliver exceptional and secure experiences. Leading global brands rely on ForgeRock to help people access the connected world, including BBC, BMW, Calabrio, Geico, Toyota and more.

Gartner predicts in the report that more than “80% of organizations are planning to pursue a vendor consolidation strategy during the next two to three years.” ForgeRock is ready for this changing landscape now with one integrated digital identity platform that fuels its entire suite of products and gives organizations a kick start to convergence. Organizations can use ForgeRock’s modern AI-driven solution as they transition from their legacy solutions.

“We’re proud to be recognized as a Leader in the Gartner Magic Quadrant for Access Management,” said ForgeRock CEO Fran Rosch. “We believe that our placement in the Leaders quadrant is a testament to the strength of our comprehensive platform and scale and, most importantly, how ForgeRock empowers the world’s leading enterprise brands to create competitive advantage and measurable business value by delivering secure and friction-free experiences to their workforce and customers.”
