About Orgenesis

Orgenesis is a biotechnology company specializing in the development, manufacturing and provision of technologies and services in the cell and gene therapy industry. The Company operates through two platforms: (i) a point-of-care ("POCare") cell therapy platform ("PT") and (ii) a Contract Development and Manufacturing Organization ("CDMO") platform conducted through its subsidiary, Masthercell Global. Through its PT business, the Company's aim is to further the development of Advanced Therapy Medicinal Products ("ATMPs") through collaborations and in-licensing with other pre-clinical and clinical-stage biopharmaceutical companies and research and healthcare institutes to bring such ATMPs to patients. The Company out-licenses these ATMPs through regional partners to whom it also provides regulatory, pre-clinical and training services to support their activity in order to reach patients in a point-of-care hospital setting. Through the Company's CDMO platform, it is focused on providing contract manufacturing and development services for biopharmaceutical companies.
