- News 4 (KMOV St. Louis) - Ferguson police demonstrate non-lethal tool to deal with combative subjects - Television news report focused on the potential to utilize the BolaWrap 100 as a creative tool for law enforcement to restrain uncooperative or mentally ill suspects, with interviews featuring Ferguson Police Chief Delrish Moss and Mike Rothans, spokesperson for Wrap Technologies.
- News Radio 1120AM (KMOX St. Louis) - Bola Wrap Gives Police Officers Non-Lethal Option - Radio news report discusses the history, innovation and potential objections of the BolaWrap 100. Interviews consisted of Ferguson Police Chief Delrish Moss and Mike Rothans, spokesperson for Wrap Technologies.

"We are pleased that our innovative product is in the forefront as organizations focus on less lethal policing especially dealing with mental crisis events," said David Norris, President of Wrap Technologies. "Our aim is to be more humane and socially conscious as we make encounters more effective and less dangerous to law enforcement and the public. We are engaging selected high-profile agencies, such as Ferguson, as we refine the BolaWrap 100 solution."

The patented hand-held BolaWrap 100 was inspired by law enforcement professionals. The product is designed to safely and effectively control encounters by remotely wrapping a subject's legs limiting the need for potentially injurious less lethal or lethal force.
